

A game is good, but creating your own game map is even better. Take a look. In one of the corners of the map, a city with a fortress wall was depicted. In the foreground were two identical houses with gabled roofs and carved ridges on them. In the middle of the yard stood a barrel of water and a pile of firewood. Wooden shovels, rakes and buckets were visible near the wall. On the other side of the street there was a wall in which an arch with thick wooden wings was pierced. There was another house in the archway. In the foreground, on the right, were people walking towards an archway with buckets of water and shovels.
